contributions, and the various co-curricular opportunities available to them.

The event was organized by the IQAC Cell. Mrs. Pamela Ghosh Dutta (Assistant Professor) warmly welcomed all the students, faculty members, and dignitaries. The collaborative efforts of the IQAC Cell and the faculty members ensured the successful execution of the Orientation Program.

OBJECTIVE

The main objectives of the Orientation Program were:

- To welcome and introduce the new B.Ed. (2024-26) students to the college environment.
- To familiarize students with the faculty members, staff, management, and institutional facilities.
- To make students aware of the Code of Conduct, academic guidelines, library usage, and available support systems.
- To introduce the students to the various clubs, cells, and co-curricular activities.
- To provide students an opportunity to interact with alumni and understand their contributions.
- To build a sense of comfort and belonging through interactive and ice-breaking sessions.

PROCESS

The Orientation Program was conducted over two days in multiple sessions:

DAY 1 (18TH NOVEMBER 2024)

The program commenced with a melodious welcome song presented by Mrs. Amrita Choudhury and her group, followed by the lighting of the lamp to mark the auspicious beginning of the event. Mrs. Pamela Ghosh Dutta introduced the Management Members and the College Faculty, warmly welcoming the new students. Our Management Members delivered motivational speeches to inspire and guide the students as they embarked on their academic journey.

The session continued with an important address by Dr. Monika Uppal, who explained the Code of Conduct, institutional rules, and student responsibilities, emphasizing the importance of discipline and ethical behaviour. The day concluded with an Alumni Presentation conducted by Mrs. Archana Kumari and Alumni Members, who highlighted the valuable contributions of alumni and the significance of maintaining strong alumni connections for professional and personal growth.

DAY 2 (19TH NOVEMBER 2024)

On the second day, the program continued with a library visit, where the Librarian and Assistant Librarian guided the students and explained the library rules, E-Library system, and available digital resources to help them access study materials efficiently. This was followed by an explanation of the B.Ed. syllabus by Dr. Monika Uppal, who provided a detailed overview of the course structure and academic expectations.

The next session included a comprehensive introduction to various clubs, cells, and activity-based learning platforms by the respective club moderators, encouraging students to participate actively in co-curricular activities. The day concluded with an ice-breaking session conducted between the B.Ed. 2023-25 and 2024-26 batches, which provided a platform for peer interaction, sharing experiences, and building a sense of community among the students.

IMPACT

The Orientation Program had a positive and meaningful impact on the newly admitted students. They gained a clear understanding of the institutional structure, academic framework, and behavioural expectations essential for their journey ahead. The program effectively created awareness about the importance of discipline, ethical conduct, and active participation in various institutional activities.

Through the library session, students became familiar with the library systems, E-Library, and academic resources, which will greatly support their learning throughout the course. The alumni session inspired students to remain connected with the institution and emphasized the long-term benefits of strong alumni networks.

Additionally, the ice-breaking session encouraged open communication, collaboration, and healthy peer relationships between the senior and junior batches, fostering a supportive learning community. Overall, the program boosted student confidence and significantly reduced the initial anxiety often experienced when entering a new academic environment.

CONCLUSION

The Orientation Program for the B.Ed. (2024-26) batch proved to be a successful and impactful initiative that provided the newly admitted students with essential information and helped them become familiar with the college environment. The program created a warm, welcoming, and supportive atmosphere, easing the transition into their new academic journey.
