IMPACT

The visit had a significant impact on the students, faculty members, and the college as a whole. The students:

- ❖ Explored various stalls and interacted with booksellers, enriching their understanding of contemporary literature and educational materials.
- ❖ Developed a deeper appreciation for reading and learning, which will motivate them to integrate reading into their teaching practices.
- ❖ Benefited from the faculty members' and librarian's expertise in selecting books that support learning and professional growth.

The faculty members and librarians:

- ❖ Acquired a range of titles to support learning and professional growth, enhancing the college library's collection.
- ❖ Gained valuable insights into contemporary literature and educational materials, which will inform their teaching practices.

OUTCOME

The outcome of the visit was overwhelmingly positive. The students and faculty members returned to college inspired and motivated, with a renewed commitment to promoting literacy and lifelong learning. The books acquired during the visit will enrich the college library, providing students with access to a diverse range of educational resources.

Learning Beyond Classrooms: DBMS students visit book fair

Jamshedpur, Nov 22: DBMS College of Education organised an educational visit to the annual Jamshedpur book fair hosted by the Tagore Society at RabindraBhavan, Sakchi on November 22. A group of 50 students, accompanied by faculty members Pamela Ghosh Dutta, Amrita Choudhary, Gayatri Kumari, Archana Kumari, Dr. Meenakshi, and librarians Kajal Mahto and Anjel Munda, participated in the visit aimed at enriching their academic exposure.

During the event, faculty members and librarians selected a variety of books for the college library, choosing titles across multiple subjects to support learning and professional development. Students explored different stalls, interacted with book-sellers, and gained insight into contemporary literature and educational resources.

The visit encouraged students to strengthen their reading habits and inspired them to incorporate reading into their future teaching practices. The management of DBMS College of Education continues to support such initiatives, reinforcing the institution's commitment to literacy, academic growth, and lifelong learning. (W-mb)
