The first session was conducted by Mrs. Poonam Kumari, who spoke on the topic, “Teacher Readiness and Professional Development for Effective Teaching in the Post NEP 2020 Environment.”

In her insightful session, Mrs. Kumari emphasized the importance of teachers being well-prepared and continuously developing their professional skills to meet the evolving demands of education. She highlighted how the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020 encourages the integration of technology in teaching and learning.

The second session was conducted by Mrs. Pamela Ghosh Dutta, who spoke on the topic: “Transformation of Higher Education: The Roadmap of 2020.”

Her session covered key aspects of the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020, including the multidisciplinary approach to education, multiple entry and exit options, the restructured framework of higher education, and the emphasis on 21st-century skills. She also discussed the current challenges and notable achievements of NEP 2020, reflecting on its impact and progress over the past five years.

CONCLUSION

Both faculty members explained their topics using PowerPoint presentations and engaged with the audience through questions. They cited examples from various societies to support their points. Both sessions provided valuable insights into personalized learning strategies in education. The resource persons conducted extensive research, which enhanced their academic contributions. The FDP was helpful for both students and teachers at the host college. They learned about different views and ideas related to the NEP 2020 in higher education.
